Dear U.S. Food + Drug Administration,

I just wanted to drop you a note to urge you to please prohibit the transport + slaughter of drowned animals. As described in the petition from PETA - Reference # 98P-0151/CP1.

These poor animals have suffered so much all ready + then to be dragged by their necks or a leg by a vehicle to slaughter is so inhumane. These animals should not be allowed to get this way in the first place and if they do they should be euthanized.

The people that do this, should once have a broken bone + be dragged to even feel a portion of the agony that these animals are put through while people are being amused by this. →

Another thing I would like to mention is, can't the slaughtering be done a little more humanely. The stories that come about how these animals are abused & tortured before they are slaughtered is awful. Then in the ways they are killed - how barbaric. You would think with this being the "90's" we would do things a little less caveman like. Please, help these suffering animals, granted they will be killed for food, but please enforce that it is done humanely and not tortured & butchered alive for some ones pleasure or amusement.

Thank you for your time & consideration.

Sincerely,

Darlene Dahl
